Policy on Library Deposit Copies of University Publications

1.0 Purpose

This policy is intended both to preserve the many publications of Virginia Tech for the historical record and to make them available to meet frequent demands. In the absence of such a policy it is difficult for the University Libraries to fulfill requests for documents from local researchers, from other institutions, and from university departments and centers. Often these requests come from the authoring agencies themselves.

This policy will help the University Libraries to fulfill their mission; will ensure the community's continued access to an enormous variety of valuable research and institutional information; and will relieve issuing agencies of much of the burden of archiving their own publications.

2.0 Policy

Each college, department, or center of Virginia Tech should send two copies of all publications to the Head of the Acquisitions Department of the University Libraries.

3.0 Procedures

The University Libraries will make publications available to the community, according to current policy and practice. The Libraries will regularly notify colleges, departments, and centers to solicit publications for deposit.

4.0 Definitions

"Publications" include technical reports, working papers, conference proceedings, and other types of research publications officially produced by colleges, departments, and centers. Other publications not relating to research, such as promotional pieces, handbooks, newsletters, and departmental histories, are also sought. Documents pertaining to classified or proprietary research are excluded, as are monographs or other publications of individual faculty members not officially produced by units in the university.
